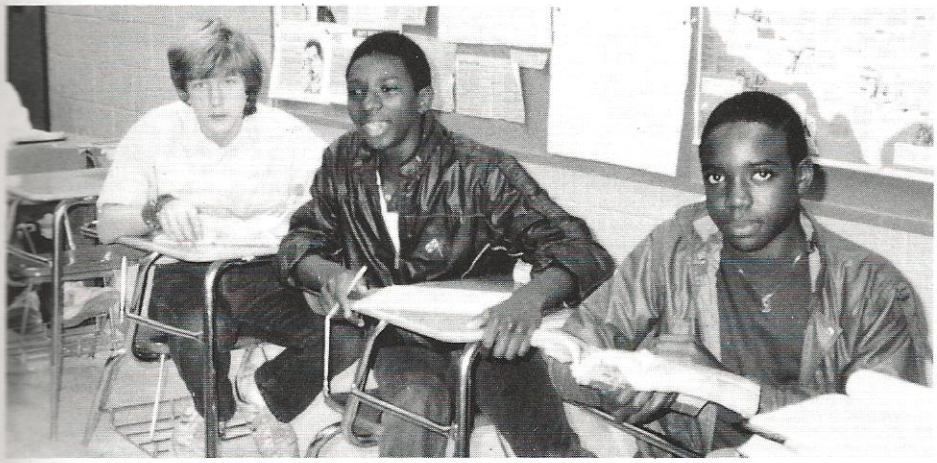
Freshmen Find A Place

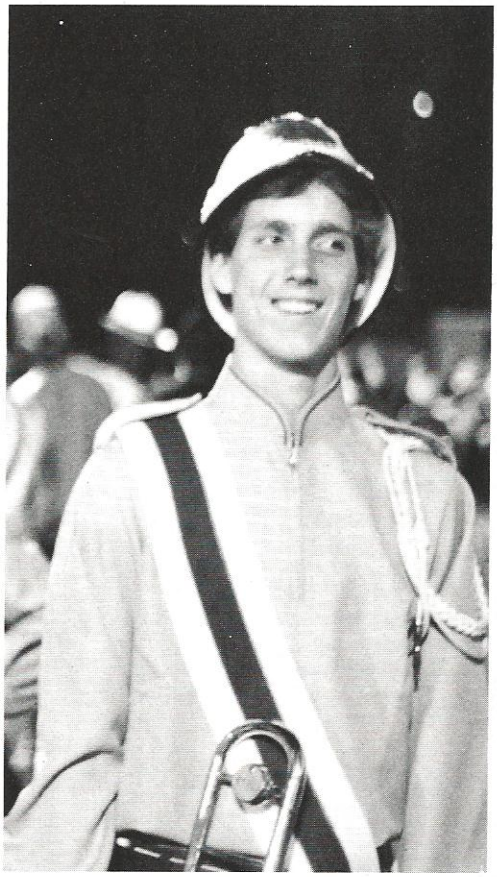
Coming to a new school, the freshmen wanted to find somewhere that they would fit in.

Even though they had their old routine of things, there were new friends to be made, new places to hang out, new band shows to learn, and new teachers to get used to. Kayce Reed commented, "I had the impression upperclassmen were stuck-up and wouldn't have anything to do with freshmen. Boy was I wrong!" Once they had settled down into the routine, things just fell into place. Leah Bell expressed, "I didn't rush in and try to take the school by storm. I settled into my routine and found my place to fit in the jigsaw puzzle at high school."

It took a little time, but the class of '89 did find itself in the part of the puzzle where it belonged.

EXTRA EFFORT IS REQUIRED for freshmen to fit into a Sophomore English class, but Peter Lommen meets the challenge.



JAY LEMACKS, James Washington, and Bernard Lane prepare to work on vocabulary.


IT DIDN'T TAKE LONG for Timmy West to find his place in the Band of Blue.