

As Stacey closes her eyes and prays for an answer, Christy looks on to see if it helps.

Looking pretty as a picture, Denise smiles for the camera, even though someone is pulling her hair.

Role Models

In the 7th grade, you have many things on your mind. Role models are very important to the 7th grade students. Role models differ from football players, to teachers, to brothers and sisters. Christy Jones said, "Mitch was her role model because he helps her in her studies." Denise and Barbie said that Mrs. Evelyn was their role model because she helps out a lot and answers many of their questions. No matter who your role model is, it's very important to have one when you are in the 7th grade.

Jeremy thinks math in Mrs. Evelyn's class is funny. I bet she doesn't.

William looks devilish. I wonder what he finds so interesting.