Our 1998-99 fifth grade class flies to a place in the future, far into the future. These youngsters plan to become some of our future veterinarians, doctors, football players, and even chemist. They say that most of their influence to become our future comes from their parents. Some of the girls even said that they would like to be the first female president but the guys were completely opposed to the idea. Both guys and girls agree that in the future a new kind of space car will be formed. Until then, they plan to stick with just having fun. In their classroom they made New Year's Resolutions that include sleeping more, saving more money and exercising more. An exciting and adventurous fifth grade class can be viewed when walking into their classroom seeing them in action. Wow! What a flight we will be taking as our fifth grade jumps into the future.
