

2012 TEACHER OF THE YEAR

Tenth grade homeroom teacher and Andrew Jackson history teacher, Mrs. McQueen Calloway has been voted High School Teacher of the Year for the 2012 school year.

Mrs. Calloway graduated from Manning High School and South Carolina State University. In the past, Mrs. Calloway taught at Bowman Academy. She has also worked at Liberty Life Insurance Company and Farm Bureau. Mrs. Calloway started out by helping two deaf students as an educational translator.

Mrs. Calloway has two children, Mac and Gail. Out of school Mrs. Calloway repairs a second house, reads, goes to concerts, travels, and enjoys her cats and dog. We love you Mrs. Calloway and thanks for being here at Andrew Jackson Academy.