

Principal's Message

We want to focus on the brilliance and beauty of precious gems which have made them prized possessions. Their quality and rarity also affect their value. Synthetic and imitation stones cannot compare when scrutinized by the trained eye of the jewel expert. So it is in education.

In this day of educational experimentation, progressivism, and non-accountability, Calvary Christian School shines like a rare gem amidst imitations as it veers neither to the right nor to the left. It drives forward in its proven academic program, its firm adherence to the Word of God, its warm Christian atmosphere, and its Christian standards. Through these genuine, fundamental qualities Calvary Christian School endeavors to produce precious gems-young people well equipped to know not only how to make a living but how to live, to shoulder responsibility, to turn trials into triumphs, and difficulties into victories. Every facet of school life focuses on Christian training and character-building based on the Word of God. "In all thy ways acknowledge him and he shall direct thy paths." (Proverbs 3:6)

I commend the Annual Staff for a yearbook well done and for capturing memories for us with such excellence and appeal. You have made the 1981 "Pathway" a treasure book to cherish.

I congratulate the 1980-1981 Seniors on their individual achievements and the character they have displayed in shouldering responsibility, meeting obstacles, and completing this phase of their training. Their success in life will depend not on money or worldly recognition but on what they do with the training received in Calvary Christian School and how they follow God's Word and God's will for their lives. Our prayer is that "he will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths." (Isaiah 2:3)
