

Walterboro, South Carolina

Walterboro is the county seat and the largest city of Colleton County. It is situated in the southeastern portion of the State of South Carolina. The city is located on Interstate 95 and the intersection of U.S. Highways 15 & 17A and S.C. Highways 63 & 64. Progressive retail trade communities are conveniently located in the Central Business District, shopping centers, and surrounding business areas.

Walterboro was settled in 1784 by owners of large rice plantations searching for a better location for their summer homes. In 1817, the City of Walterboro became the county seat and was officially incorporated in 1826.

Walterboro abounds with fine examples of 19th century architectural design as seen in many residences, including three structures which are noted in the National Register.

Walterboro is in close proximity to the cities of Charleston, S.C. and Savannah, Ga. The population of the City of Walterboro is estimated at 7,200 while the population of the greater Walterboro area is estimated at 13,000. It has a mild and moderate climate. The people of Walterboro enjoy all outdoor sports and activities for 12 months of the year. Hunting and fishing are very popular recreations. Walterboro is a city with a confident future and a proud tradition.

We Are Proud Of Our Community.
