

Classes

People—faces, names, friends, enemies—spilling from classrooms, surging through halls, jostling, pushing, laughing—each unique and separate; each a part of the whole military routine.

