

Every year about Christmas time the battalion contributes money to buy toys for the orphanage in Camden. Major Beckham and his wife pick the gifts for these young people. The children at the home range in ages from infant to teenagers. Major Beckham spends a considerable amount of time selecting the gifts. Somehow he always manages to find just the right gift for every child.

The day of the Christmas party the entire cadet corps seems to pick up the true Christmas spirit and everyone leaves feeling a little taller.
