

One of the highlights of the year was the visit to the Academy of Col. Jerry M. Sage, Deputy Chief of Staff, ROTC Affairs, Third U. S. Army. After being met by an honor guard and reviewing the battalion, Col. Sage spoke to the corps of his experiences and beliefs. The narrating of many of his hair-raising exploits behind the German lines during World War II revealed to the cadets the origin of the nickname the Germans had for him, "The Cooler King."
