ARMORY STAFF 1970-1971

This group of dedicated young men maintain the security and condition of the weapons of the corps in the armory. They are responsible for the handing out and receiving the weapons. When a rifle has a faulty or broken part, it is this staff's duty to see that it is repaired. Since they are responsible indirectly to the military at Fort Jackson, this is an extremely important and integral part of military training at C.M.A.
