

COLONEL LANNING RISHER

MESSAGE FROM THE HEADMASTER

Time is the great common denominator of life. Each of us has twenty-four hours in every day. The beauty we see, the joy we know, the deeds we accomplish, and the love we show are all dependent upon how we use these twenty-four hours. In short, our use of time determines success or failure in life.

A little poem from the ancient Sanskrit beautifully expresses this thought. I hope you will think of it often in the years ahead.

SALUTATION TO THE DAWN

*Look well to this day,
For it is life, the very life of life.
In its brief course
Lie all the verities and realities of your existence;
The bliss of growth,
The glory of action,
The splendor of beauty.

For yesterday is but a dream,
And tomorrow is only a vision.
But each today well-lived
Will make each yesterday a dream of happiness
And each tomorrow a vision of hope.

Look well, therefore, to this day,
For such is the Salutation to the Dawn.*
