

Annual Federal Inspection

The President of the inspection team reviewing the honor guard.

The band provided the music during the honor guard ceremony.

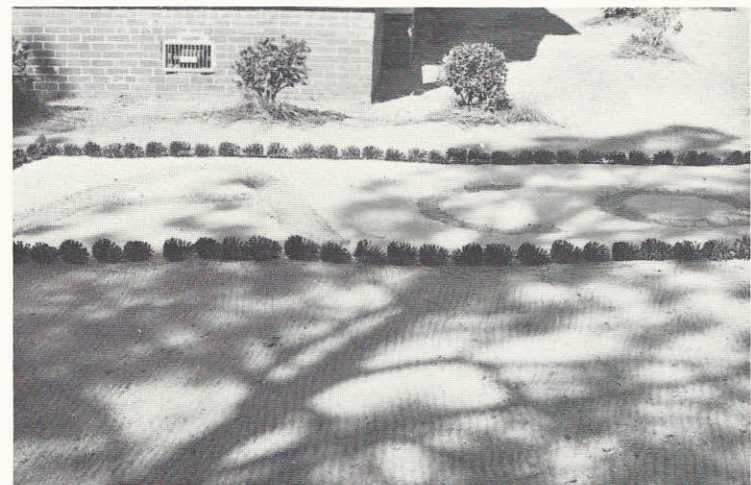

The inspector troops the line during the early morning ceremony.

Members of the inspection team toured the company barracks and areas during their day at C.M.A.

Each school year the United States Army designates a committee of officers to evaluate Camden Military Academy's JROTC Department. This year the inspection team was comprised of members of the ROTC staff of Davidson College, Davidson, North Carolina. The team inspected cadets, barracks, administrative records, campus, and security of military facilities.

In the past, Camden Military Academy has scored 100% to earn highest ranking, that of Honor Unit with Distinction, earned through full participation of every CMA cadet, working as individuals and as a team.

Each of the four companies worked very hard preparing themselves and their barracks and areas.
