

GREEK DELIGHT

DKS: a CMA status symbol.

Wearing a toga, walking with a raw egg in hand, and being restricted to saying, "I pledge allegiance to my egg of the Delta Kappa Sigma!" during initiation rites, is more than fun. It signifies that a cadet is one of 15 members of DKS, CMA's honor society. Selected by the faculty, instructors base their choices on individual leadership, grades, attitude, and community service characteristics. Delta Kappa Sigma is self-supporting through money earned by selling refreshments at ballgames and through other fund raising activities, enabling members to go to movies, out to eat, and to take educational trips.

DKS comprises the few, the proud, the elite.

Reggie Leggette, Scott Raynal, Scott Welborn and Mark Onley attending a club meeting at Carlisle House.

Scott Welborn (seated) works the concession stand at a football game.

DKS 1982-83. Front row: Latta Baucom, Scott Raynal, Jay Carter, David Geisler. Back row: Brian Truitt, William Carnes, Mark Onley, Richard Pichette, Reginal Leggette, Ian Baucom, Kagan Ertugrul, Richie Cannon, Scott Welborn. Setting is Camden's City Hall.