

LOST IN THOUGHT . . .

. . . and stacks of books.

Quiet, relaxed, conducive to intellectual development—such words suggest the atmosphere the library provides. Nestled among stacks of books, students often are reading, researching, writing, or simply thinking. The library is integral to life at Camden Military Academy.

Among most frequent library visitors are harried members of the debate team, burning the midnight oil in an effort to prepare themselves and complete their research. Members of the team, advised by Captain Kelly Schrader, participate in competition throughout North and South Carolina and Georgia.

The James F. Risher Chapter of the National Forensics League rolls on.
