

CROSS COUNTRY

Carew runs hard against his opponent.

This year was a first for the CMA cross-country team. Major McClendon coached the team which consisted of 12 members most of whom were seniors. Major McClendon is not a stranger to the sport of running. In fact he coached in the Army and started women's cross-country at Appalachian State University in Boone, N.C. Since this was a first for the team it had some hard races against the other schools. Major McClendon said that "At least we are learning something". He was also quoted as saying "It has been a real baptism with some of the 4-A schools we've been running against." The team won one race against Chesterfield in a meet with Lugoff-Elgin. Hopefully next year the team will be able to muster enough support to lead it to victory. We certainly hope that those teams which won over us will be ready and waiting to compete next year since we will be ready and waiting to strengthen our position over them so that future teams will be able to run as well.
