

Despite Hugo, life goes on: classes, drill, study hall, trips to the corner store, calls home. One day blends into the next; the weeks roll by. Furloughs punctuate the flow of time. Christmas appears as a dot on the horizon, approaches, looms, and passes. Spring Break seems eons away, and yet it, too, slips by. Soccer, baseball, warm sunny afternoons that linger past supper and beckon to us through the open windows of study hall. And then: exams, graduation weekend, the general order. Where did the year go?

Jeff LeVine and Chris Witherspoon pass a few important moments at CMA's favorite hangout.
