

Friendship

Of course, most of us live from day to day. At the very most, we look as far ahead as the next furlough or holiday. We may not realize that as these days roll by, we are forming some of the closest friendships of our lives. Under the pressures of school life, we turn to each other for encouragement, understanding, and laughter. We may not say it, but the message is clear: things may be tough sometimes, but we'll make it — and have some good times, too! That's what friendship's about at CMA.

Everyone agrees CMA is a great place to make friends.

"Whatcha say, bro'?" Seniors Matt Davenport and Paul Cosmopoulos stop for a friendly exchange.

Even the Pad is not so bad when you're not marching alone. Tracy Sanders, Tim Fox, and Chad Selke take a break from the pleasure of a brisk walk in fresh air.
