

Bravo's Honor Company!

"Honor Company, Dismissed!" shouts CPT Mike Nicholson. A roaring "Honor Company!" rattles walls in response from one end of the campus to the other. "Why do they yell so loud?" other cadets may ask. It is because, in the words of sophomore James Kaiser, "Bravo is a special breed, a unique breed. We are able to work together, laugh together, and chill out together." B Company cadets have their hard times, but they know that there is nothing they can not do together. "As long as we are united, the company has nothing to fear because we are not a bunch of people trying to survive; we are a team working together." CPT Nicholson has said that the company is only as strong as its weakest man, and that is why B Company cadets are encouraged to help each other so they will not be brought down. Concludes Cadet Kaiser: "I do not feel that there is a better company on campus."

From the very first day, B Company has worked to hold on to its title of Honor Company. B Co XO Demian Tucker begins shaping this year's new boys.

B Co Staff. Guideon Beverly, Tac Ofcr CSM Layne, Co Cmdr CPT Nicholson. 1SG Nichols, 2LT Maready, 2LT Boyette, 1LT Tucker.

Passing on the tradition, old cadets like senior Pat DeWare help teach new boys like 7th grader Mario Lopez how to work together.
