Charlie Company

Sizing up the new boys, LTC Mowe casts a long look at 8th grader Vaughn Hammang, while sophomore Harrell Powell waits his turn.

Everything's cool for these C Company guys: Stephen Leonardelli, Chris McEniry, Clifford Brown, and Randy Nicholas.

Charlie Company, otherwise known as Powerhouse, is in the race for Honor Company. Headed by CPT Allen Watford, C Company is sharpening their skills, their attitudes, and their appearances. They encourage each other to participate in sports and other extracurricular activities, as well as to keep up their grades and do their best in military competitions. One of Charlie Company's biggest supporters is LTC Mowe, who is always behind them — and after them — to do their best. Anyone privileged to sit in on LTC Mowe's study halls will not forget them for a while. The company also owes a lot to the leadership of Platoon Leaders Clifford Brown and Jason Jesseph, who along with their squad leaders brought together two platoons to make up the family of Charlie Company.

Everything's not so cool for C Company cadets Brian Coleman, Chris Weatherford, and Billy Dial who do their best to drown each other.
