

Key Club members Jeff Lord, Allen Watford, Grant Winrich, and Billy Dial look over agenda for the year.

Jim Boyette and Craig McCotter were among a large group of FCA members to attend a mountain retreat.

Keeping on the move

What better way to spend time than to get involved in an action organization like the Key Club or the Fellowship of Christian Athletes? Members of each group have opportunities to travel to conventions and retreats where lots of other young people (including girls) attend. Delta Kappa Sigma, CMA's honor society, also does its share of traveling. DKS members, juniors and seniors who have achieved high academic and personal standards, attend several concerts and plays during the year at the Koger Center. Finally, Junior Leadership members get around as well. This group of four cadets meets monthly with representatives from other area schools to keep lines of communication open among students throughout Kershaw County.

Key Club meetings are not all business. Members Ian Osborne and Allen Watford may have contracted senior fever.

