

THE CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION

After the convocation, everyone enjoyed a delicious barbeque luncheon.

Principal speaker Al Walker's wit elicited both laughter and serious appreciation.

On Saturday, October 17, 1992, the CMA Cadet Corps and the Carlisle-Camden family of alumni, faculty, and friends gathered in White Field House for the Centennial Convocation. Al Walker, a 1965 Carlisle alumnus, gave the principal address, in which he anecdotally recounted the valuable role that his Carlisle experience has played in his life. Generously leavened with humor, his remarks were both inspirational and entertaining. He also stated that the Centennial Dress Parade was the best he had ever seen. After the convocation, everyone enjoyed a delicious barbeque luncheon in the dining hall. The afternoon featured a hard fought football game with Porter-Goud, a spectator's delight. In quality, enjoyment, and inspiration, the events of the day truly measured up to the purpose for which they were intended.

The CMA football team delighted spectators with outstanding play against Porter-Goud.

Over 300 alumni, family, and friends attended the convocation on this very special day.
