

A Fresh Start

There is an unavoidable sameness about the beginning of each new school term at CMA — registration, unloading and getting settled into rooms, the inevitable and often tedious process of drawing uniforms in the supply room. But there is always something new and exciting, too — new faces, new personalities, cadets from all over the U.S. and the rest of the globe. For “old boys” and new cadets alike, there is the opportunity for a fresh start: returning cadets can raise GPA’s and “get some rank;” new cadets can cast themselves in a different role, shape up, and perform better than they did in their previous schools. Each new year is different and will be long remembered by all CMA cadets who had the privilege of sharing it.

Returning cadet Blair Smith discusses his schedule with LTC Schrader.

Mr. Gulette leaves his son Jeremy in the capable hands of LTC Cook and the A Company officers.

Old boys Newberry and Moore get books and friendly conversation from MAJ LePage, science instructor.

Cadet Height is out of uniform as he carries his “stuff” to his room.

Assisted by his mother and Cadet Mathias, Martin gets settled into his room.

New cadet Blumer learns the art and science of military bedmaking.
