

In November CMA opened its gates for the first Visitors' Day of the new term. The weekend began for many on Friday with the reunion of families and their CMA sons. Similar pursuits continued on Saturday, culminating that night in the first dance of the year. Sunday morning brought a delicious breakfast and church, followed after lunch by conferences with CMA instructors. In mid-afternoon came the high point of the day, a dress parade in which families and friends got to see the Cadet Corps demonstrate their mastery of military drill and ceremony. In the reviewing stand were honored guests Mr. and Mrs. Monteith, parents of Cadet LTC King, bn. com. The Corps performed admirably — a spirited end to an important day.

C Company, second platoon, headed by 2LT Casey Tart, passes in review.

Cadet LTC King, Colonel Risher, and Board Chairman Scarborough troop the line.

The Camden Military Academy Cadet Corps presents arms.

Cadet 2LT Lynard Gardner's B Company platoon parades by the reviewing stand.

Cadets Mitchell and Cooper deliver the colors to CM Treska, Cannon Detail commander.