The Future of People

“Having served as part of the administration here and at West Point, I am convinced that—above all else—the people shape the school and define the experience. The faculty, staff, and most importantly, the Corps of Cadets here are frankly the finest I have seen. Our caring and concerned faculty and staff have as their priority the young men of our Cadet Corps. There is a mutual and genuine like and respect among teachers and students. Our teachers, many of whom have master’s degrees, work diligently with each cadet, helping him to maximize his potential.”
