

Thomas Ryan Martin

We should encourage and support our children in what they want to accomplish in their lives, through failures and successes, trusting that they will gain from their experiences and grow. Children's dreams, strengths, and inner qualities help develop them into adults who can then face the world with confidence.

Ryan, you are such a wonderful person. We are always proud of you because you make the best of all situations. You have grown incredibly these five years at CMA.

"The world is yours for the taking!"

Love forever,

Mom, Barry, & Ava
