Bravo Excellence

This year has been very productive for the cadets of Bravo Company. In the words CPT Anthony Lilla, company commander, "Bravo Company is full of mature young men, and together we have made great strides toward the title of Honor Company." There have been several constructive changes in the operation of the company. CSM Rolf Itrenkauf continues to run the company in the smoothest way possible with the skills acquired from years of dealing with the young men of Bravo Company.

This year's chain of command is headed by CPT Anthony Lilla, company commander; 1LT Bron Rathert, executive officer; and 1SG Rustin Gasperson, first sergeant. "The chain of command started out as teenagers learning about responsibility but ended up as men with a purpose," CPT Lilla observed.

Over the years Bravo has strived for academic excellence and increased athletic participation. B Company always seeks to excel.
