High Standards

As Camden Military Academy continues to grow, it does so with careful planning and attention to the character of the people and the quality of the environment. Two new teachers have been hired this year, and they have already proved themselves to be highly competent. The Academy continues to admit only those students who possess the same good character that is typical of our present cadet corps. The new barracks is an attractive, spacious facility that is pleasing to the cadets and to all others who use it. As other buildings are added, they will be of the same high quality. Camden Military Academy is a Corps of Cadets with good character and great potential; a competent, caring faculty and staff to guide them; and a safe, attractive physical environment in which to study and recreate.

Gene McCaskill, Director of Admissions, and Casey Robinson, his assistant, are the principal reasons for Camden Military Academy's continuously full enrollment. Mr. McCaskill and Mr. Robinson have been highly successful in communicating the Academy's merits to prospective cadets and their parents.
