

A Company

Regaining the Title

Rising bright and early each day to the sounds of "Duck Calls," one of LTC Cook's favorite CD's, A Company focuses on regaining the Honor Company title after a disappointing finish last year. The goals of Alpha continue to be excellent grades, high study hall ratings, a spotless barracks, winning military competitions, and participation in athletics. All cadre members and most of the rank and file get involved in some kind of sport. Company Commander Josh Wooten voiced the company's sense of direction: "The company as a whole would really like to regain the Honor Company title, and we are committed to working as hard as necessary to achieve that goal." He further observed that the chain of command works very closely with LTC Cook, tactical officer, to keep the company running smoothly. 2LT Alvin Hardin added, "Alpha values discipline and military courtesy. We hope that these attitudes will lead us to the Honor Company title."

Staff: Guidon David Bruce Row 2: 2LT Joshua Wooten, 1SG Clinton Clemens, 2LT Alvin Hardin Row 3: 1LT Skyler Jones, LT Paul Cook, tactical officer, CPT Travis Watson

Company Commander Joshua Wooten and LTC Paul Cook, tactical officer, check some interesting statistics on the computer.

A Company cadets escape barracks fever on the front porch: F Manning Row 2: T Leftwich, A Smith, Van Dyck, J Funderud, A Pasut, R Rivera, M Black, M Richey, A Curry