

B Company

What's New?

B Company began the year in style by moving into the new barracks. "The barracks is bright and spacious," said Company Commander William Coltharp, "and of course everything is new. That boosts morale." But there is a price. CSM Irtenkauf insists on keeping the premises spotless. The company falls out every morning and every evening after dinner for cleanup. The military is still high on Beta's list. They were Honor Company second semester last year and repeated during first semester this year. "CSM Irtenkauf has high standards," observed CPT Coltharp. "We have frequent company drills." As always, B Company emphasizes academics. Study halls begin with all cadets standing at attention outside their rooms with their planners open for inspection. This ritual sets the tone for quiet, serious study time. Cadets with academic deficiencies are restricted to campus on weekends. Beta's location has changed, but its high standards remain the same.

Staff: Guidon Ernest G. Mungo Row 2: CPT William I. Coltharp, 1LT Jorge E. Rosa Row 3: SFC William V. Caraway, David A. Hurt, 2LT Andrew C. Perlick Row 4: CSM Rolf Irtenkauf, Tactical Officer

CSM Irtenkauf and Company Commander William Coltharp discuss company business.

Leaving for drill: Maske, Rankin, Carter, Adjei, Udofa, Maske, Irvin, Payton, Guy, Sullivan