

C Company

In Pursuit of Honor

"We want to earn CSM Terrell's first Honor Company title for him," said Company Commander Andrew Zapf, "and we're doing what it takes to get there." Three early morning formations beginning at 5:55 A. M. keep everyone on track. "We have briefings, check on rooms and uniforms, and go over the day's schedule," explained XO Neil Hartzel. Charlie also marches back to the barracks from every meal to keep cadets out of trouble. One impressive practice in C Company is a tutoring system aimed at all subjects. One NCO and one commissioned officer head up the program. As in the past, Charlie continues to have a high participation in sports. C Company considers its tac officer and a committed chain of command to be its strongest assets at this point. "Every officer does his job, and we're always accessible to the cadets," observed CPT Zapf. "We all support one another."

Staff: SFC Danieve A. Harper, Guidon Miller, 2LT Chase E. Whitman Row 2: CPT Andrew D. Zapf, 1LT Neil G. Hartzel, 1S Jarad M. McKenna

Company Commander Andrew Zapf and CSM Othell Terrell, Tactical Officer, share a pleasant moment in the C Company hall.

A motley crew: Atkinson, Eyoum-Deido, Chrisley Row 2: S Miller, Zapf, Hughes, Collins, Whitman Row 3: Kirkland, Hammet, Foley, Strickland, Helms, Murphy, McKenna, Leath, Hartzel, Epstein, Kin