

D Company

Big Delta

D Company is still the newest at CMA, but it has grown from 27 cadets last year to its full complement of 64 in 2002. Delta's trademark remains its spirited cadence counts. They sing everywhere they go. With the infusion of many new cadets at the beginning of the school term, the company experienced some growing pains. However, under the able leadership of First Sergeant Mike Irvin, tactical officer, and the cadet chain of command, Delta has settled into an orderly routine. "We are quite happy where we are," said Company Commander Brian Post. "This company can do anything it sets its mind to. Cadets can talk to the chain of command at any time. We call this our open-door policy. We want to stop problems before they get complicated and make cadets feel that they are part of a family, not just a school." Delta has a long, bright future ahead.

Staff: 2LT Dwayne Kinney, Guidon Victor Sanchez, 2LT Hans Birnrich Row 2: 1SG Richard Michael, CPT Brian Root, Brian Post

First Sergeant Mike Irvin, tactical officer, and Company Commander Brian Post confer on company matters.

D Company cadets congregate in the courtyard: McDonald, Poe, Carr, Robertson, Keith, Bumgar, Proctor, Lockett, Fetzner Row 2: Birnrich, Buchanan, Yates, Root, Cockerham, Brown, Sasser, NeSt Row 3: Forshaw, Harrison, Busby, Meise, Woodard