Honor Bound

"We are striving to be Honor Company," said Charlie Company Commander Chase Whitman, "and we have come a long way since the beginning of the year. But we really focus on all aspects of the cadet experience. If we are good all around, then we will be Honor Company." Charlie Company cadets are a well-rounded group. They have a high overall GPA, and they are good athletes. For example, they lost only one intramural football game during PT this year. Leadership is also a strong asset in Charlie. "We have a competent and effective chain of command, and CSM Terrell is an outstanding tac officer who backs us to the hilt as long as we are right," observed CPT Whitman. Charlie also emphasizes self-respect and respect for others. The company's focus on developing the whole man is a sure path toward securing the Honor Company title.
