

The Value of Tradition

Tradition is an integral part of the way we do everything at CMA. It is an important part of any military organization and is an important part of a quality educational experience.

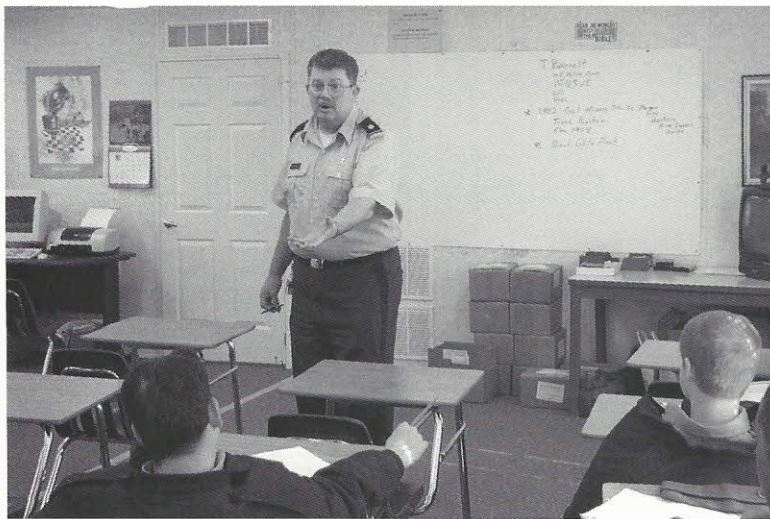

For the past twenty to twenty-five years, there has been great turmoil the world of educational theory. Without disregarding useful innovation, our school has been a bulwark of tradition and proven educational practice. We have embraced the best, while not being detoured by the frivolous.

CMA graduates who have come and seriously applied the lessons taught both in and out of the classroom remain as some of the best prepared students in the nation.

LTC Kelly R. Schrader
Academic Dean

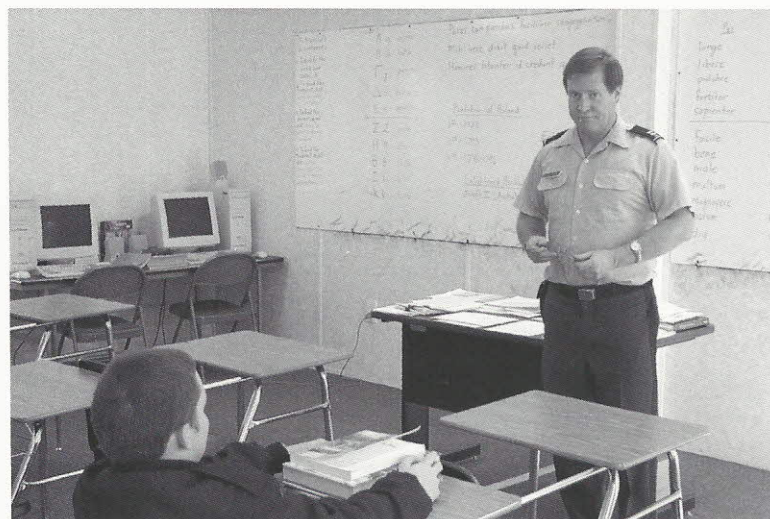

LTC Greg Simonson, biology instructor, brings enthusiasm and a thorough knowledge of his subject to his classes. His other duties include the Science Club and after-school activities.

Chaplain (Major) Ed Westbury helps cadets in several roles, as pastor, counselor, and history instructor.

Known for his long assignments and rigorous tests, CPT Samuel Cerezo also sponsors the International Club and coordinates intramural sports.

Nearing completion of his Ph. D. in ancient history, CPT James Fitzpatrick is thoroughly prepared to teach Latin and AP history.

A CMA alumnus and a UNC graduate, LTC Will Rice teaches social studies and literature. In addition he coaches football and baseball.
