"Hard work is the building block of every kind of achievement: Without it, everything else is pointless. You can start with a dream or an idea or a goal, but before any of your hopes can be realized, you truly must deserve your success."

Winston Churchill

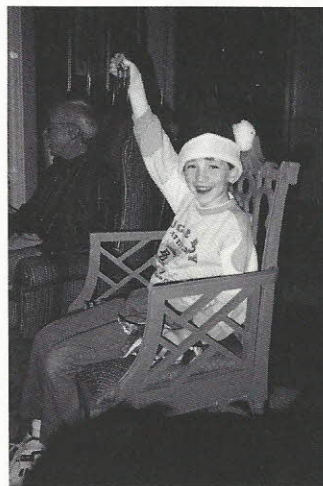

Patrick,

Congratulations! You have earned this success! The future is yours; you only have to dream big and choose to succeed. We love you.

Dear Brandon,

It is unfathomable how quickly the years have swept by. Despite reference to time and how it is perceived, you filled every year with joy, entertainment, and a plenitude of conversation (and continue to do so). I have always experienced a great feeling of honor to have you as a son.

There are many others who share with me an admiration for your initiative, intelligence, wit, and strong spirit. I know that you will continue to be successful!

Love, peace, and happiness to you, with a colossal congratulations!

Mom
