

A Company

Discipline, Dedication, and Determination

The main goal of Alpha is to show the other companies who the best really is. "We are disciplined, dedicated, and determined to demonstrate our superior performance, not that we are better individuals, but we are a united family, keeping it thorough," said Company Commander Ian Steigleman. CSM Brooks, tactical officer, believes that improvement is a gradual process: "We improve on things a little at a time and keep getting better." In Alpha everybody helps one another. The older cadets help the younger ones, and everyone tries to learn from mistakes. Other Alpha goals continue to be excellent grades, high study hall ratings, keeping the barracks clean, winning military competitions, and participating in athletics. By excelling in all areas, A Company strives to retain the Honor Company Title.
