Babies... blink ...Wildly energetic boys... blink ... Young men!
...Identical, yet so very individual...each with so much to be proud of...
...Where are the words? So much to say, such a short time...

Live - really live - every day and remember to thank God for giving you that day.
Find your passion and don't settle for anything less. Expect success and you will achieve it.
Look for the good in everything and find the lesson in the parts that seem difficult.

Remember to be open-minded. There is always something new to learn.
Embrace your own code of honor and don't ever, ever compromise it.
Appreciate and acknowledge those who help you along your way.
Use your gifts to help others. That is the key to a rich life.
Remember: you never run out of things you share.
Take time to say Thank You.

Finally, be yourselves.
...and remember how much your whole family loves you.

Love, Mom
