

A Company

Working Together

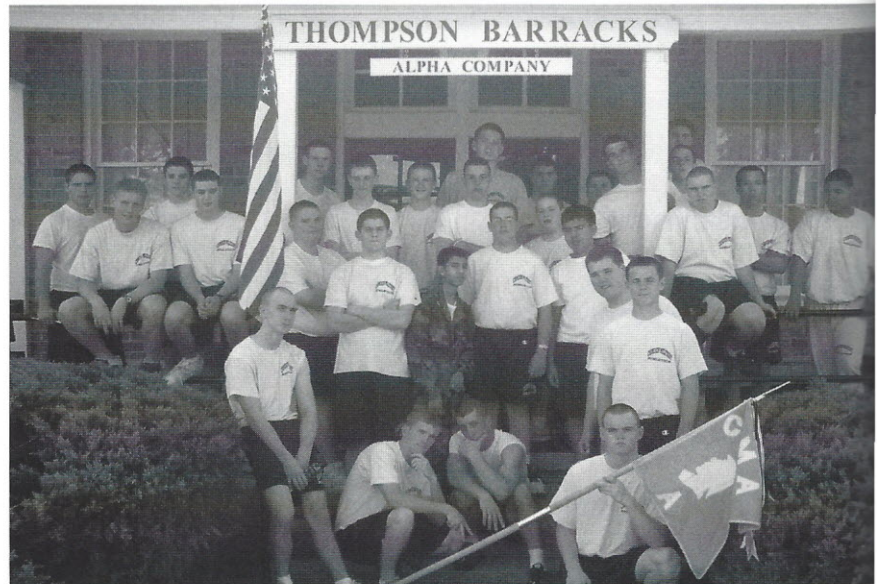

"Alpha company has really come together this year. We have a strong Chain of Command and we've all together made this year a good one," reports CPT Chris Zemla, Company Commander. Again this year CSM Brooks, Tactical Officer, has set the highest standards to be followed. With hopes of retaining the title of Honor Company, the cadets of Alpha have been working hard and pushing to set the pace for the other companies. The older cadets help the younger ones, and everybody tries to learn from mistakes. Company goals continue to be excellent grades, high study hall ratings, keeping the barracks clean, winning military competitions, and participating in athletics. By working hard in all areas, A Company can retain the Honor Company title.
