

Forward, March!

Ever since the beginning of Camden Military Academy, drill & ceremony have always been integral to the cadets' daily routine. There are three mandatory battalion formations a day for meals, and cadets will often spend up to two hours a day in formations, marching or drilling under the supervision of the cadet chain of command.

Right: Cadets march off the football field following a march-on. The Corps of Cadets march onto the football field at the beginning of each home game for the National Anthem.
