

On October 17, 2009, many gathered at Camden Military Academy for Homecoming. The cadets' family, friends and girlfriends all attended to observe the homecoming parade and football game. First was the anxiously awaited homecoming parade. Many surrounded the podium in front of the parade field to watch as the corps of the cadets marched on. This was something new and exciting for all the visitors to watch but was just another march-on for the cadets, who practice this every morning. There was a rising commotion throughout the audience, as the parade went on, in response to how good the band was this year. As the cadets formed up in front of everyone, Major LePage called out all the Battalion Staff's names, ranks and duties in the battalion. Nearing the end of the parade, applause rose up from the crowd as the battalion ended with the pass and review. The audience was very pleased with the performance of the cadets in the parade.
