

The Cline Chapel

The Corps of Cadets in their Sunday best.

An inspirational light shines on the battalion.

Cadets McKnezie and McSwain get with God.

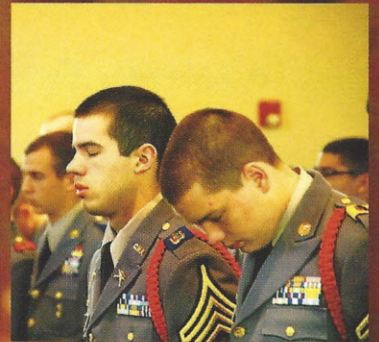

Dedicated on March 17, 2007 and named for the Cline family on May 23, 2010, the Cline Chapel serves as a venue for religious activities, guest speakers and awards ceremonies. The Cline Chapel seats more than 400 people. Before the construction of this House of God, such functions were held in the White Field House. For this gift, Camden Military Academy will always be grateful to the Clines.

Headmaster Colonel Boland, holding a degree in Christian Counseling, often speaks at the chapel.

Guest speaker Derek Gillis visited the chapel in December of 2011.

Cadets Rodriguez and Domanico share a moment of deep prayer.

As Christmas approached, Mr. Gillis spoke to the Corps about the meaning of gifts, giving and receiving.
