

2. "In the picture we were proudly chanting our Company's name, "CHARLIE! CHARLIE!" Standing out front with my hands in the air I could hardly believe that that was me when I saw the picture. Charlie Company had become a home over the past two years and this year I was back for round three. Behind me was my Company Commander Ryan Callari of Charlotte, North Carolina with his hands thrown up in the air and my First Sergeant Douglas Dawson of Columbia, South Carolina behind me yelling Charlie as loud as he could. We were ready to take home a trophy to Charlie Company. We were Victorious in our efforts though I must admit I missed a little bit of the events due to a brick falling on my head during one of the events, which became another trophy of this year's Victory in the Spartan Challenge."
 -First Lieutenant Dustin Cody of Rock Hill, South Carolina

3. Cadet Grant Talley and Jake Williams of Delta Company preparing for the event.

"One of the greatest things you can gain from CMA is the bond between the guys in your company. These guys become family, your brothers. The Spartan Challenge helps build these bonds."
 Nicholas Sheffron, of Columbus, North Carolina.

5. "The Spartan Challenge is not only physically challenging but academically challenging as it's a great way to see how much potential the cadets in your company have." - Turner Jones of Jacksonville, Florida