

Snow Day

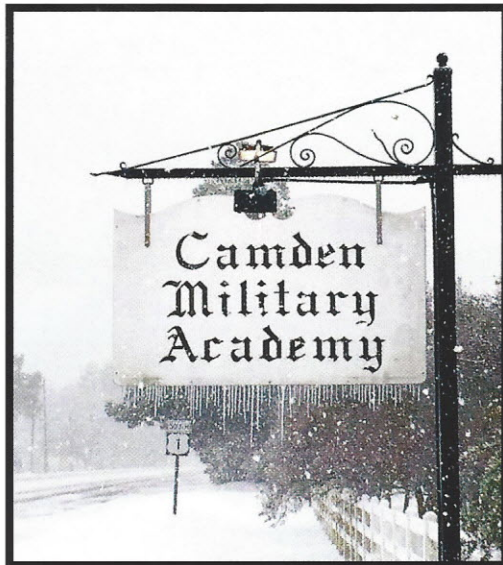

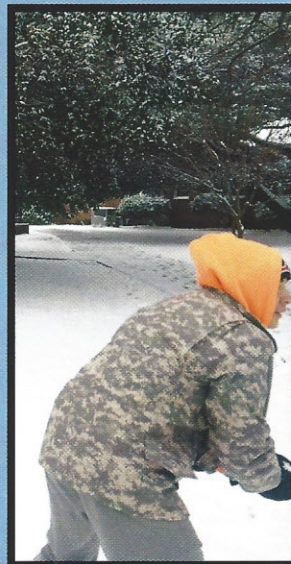

Page 84

Snow in the South is a rare thing. Snow at CMA is legendary. Since my first year I have heard stories of the legendary day school was canceled due to snow. Yesterday we didn't get school canceled, but we did have a ten o'clock late start. From the moment I woke up, I knew I was going to have fun. I heard at the edge of my hearing someone shouting, "It's Snowing!" I jumped into my ACUs and put on my snow pants and ran down the hallway on to the back porch where I was promptly lit up with snowballs by fellow Captain Callari and his posse. I chased them away from my company, hollering at them at the top of my lungs. I now have my own stories to pass on about the legendary Camden Snow day.

- Captain Noah Williams of Port Orange, North Carolina

A snow day at Camden is a great thing. We got to sleep in until nine and although we still had classes, we were able to enjoy the beauty of the snowy blanket and the opportunity to play in it after school.

Sergeant Sanders Forrester of High Point, NC