Young Spartans looking to build for the future.

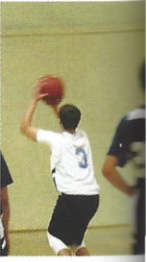

The Junior Varsity Basketball team here at Camden Military Academy has always had the goal of having a winning streak. This year, Coach Johnson wanted to focus on the goals of having a sound heart and character in order to learn the art and science of playing together.

Even though the team only won two games, Coach Johnson was very happy that his team won against Marlboro County, one of the rival teams, twice. Above all, during these games the team became better at rebounding and free throws.

The MVP for this season was Jayce Golden who was the lead scorer.

Jayce also improved as a point guard which really helped during the season. The Defensive MVP's were Life Mathew and Alvin Jean.

These two players were excellent rebound leaders, played the defense position, and knew how to time jumps and block shots. The Spirit Award was given to Ignacio Chamon, a player who never complained about playing time, practiced hard each day, and an excellent team player.

"This was my first season playing with these guys, so it took us a while to get on the same page, but once we did we became a good team."
