

On Wednesday the 11th of March, 2015, some foreign cadets of Camden Military Academy sat down together for a traditional Chinese dinner known as hot pot. It is thought to have started 1,000 years ago in Mongolia. It was during the Qing Dynasty that hot pot became widely popular throughout China. Today hot pot comes in many different regional variations, Beijing style to Sichuan style to Hong Kong style. Our teacher, Mr. Woodcock, prepared the Sichuan style, which is known for its spicy broth. Staying with tradition he heated the pot of peppers, oil and spices using coal instead of the modern way of heating by electricity or propane. The ingredients also vary but usually consist of meat, vegetables and seafood. These ingredients are put into the pot and after they finish cooking, are scooped out by a metal spoon or picked out by chopsticks.

Excalibur Staff 2015

The EXCALIBUR Staff of 2014-2015 hopes this yearbook gives one a vivid and explicit picture of this past school year at Camden Military Academy. It is our sincere wish that the contents within these pages bring back memories of a year well spent.

We have learned many things that cannot be found in books. The relationship among us all in our triumphs and our defeats, our joy and despair, our personal feelings, and our sense of moral duty has offered us an education that could not have been acquired at any place except Camden Military Academy.

In future years we will look upon the people who made this year and feel a sense of pride that we have been, and always will be, a living part of CAMDEN.

Santiago Villalobos, Jake McGuire, LTC John Heflin, Austin MacDonald, and Kameron Gentile