

The Blackjack drill team is our Camden Military's elite silent precision drill team. What caught my eye about drill was the rifle movements and the immense discipline that comes along with a silent precision drill team. Drill teams have synchronized together like clockwork to make spectacular events with seamless effort. Our Blackjack drill team has become that very image that I'm proud to be apart of. We have broken barriers and worked with limited resources to make great things happen. Last year was the Blackjacks' first year to be introduced into Camden Military Academy; and by pulling together cadets that I nor they could have ever met in any other circumstance, CMA created a brotherhood as tight as our drill routines. This year we will be following in our brothers' footsteps setting high standards and training new Blackjacks. I'm proud to be a part of something that holds to such high standard and our Blackjack legacy and tradition will follow Camden Military Academy for a long time.

BLACKJACKS

"I believe that the Blackjacks are the difference to this Academy. We are committed and loyal to the team and we never give up without a good fight. Everytime I wear my black and gold citation cord, or spin my rifle, I know I'm a Blackjack and I feel great about it."

William Bradley of
