

critical moments

"Character is what really counts in life. What you do speaks so loudly that people seldom hear what you say."

COL James F. Risher
Founder of Carlisle Military School and Camden Military Academy

Old Boys
The Cadre at CMA were invited back first, consisting of Chain of Command members and all other Cadet Officers. They were briefed by LTC Lawing and COL Boland in the Carlisle House about how to ensure that Camden's leadership will stay strong. Many Cadre members were excited to finally buy their swords! Two days later, the other old cadets returned to the academy, reuniting with others after a long summer.

Picture above: 6. A parent shakes hands with Mason Van Loan (Canton, Georgia) to thank him for helping, 7. MAJ Horn searches for a jacket to fit Octavius Bunn (Selma, North Carolina), 8. Maxwell Green (Charlotte, North Carolina) and Samed Heydarov (Baku, Azerbaijan) discover they're roommates in the barracks, 9. Marcello Neis (Columbia, South Carolina) watches 1SG Green work the cash register, 10. Jack Davern (Madison, Connecticut) at the barber shop to shave off his summer cut.