

THE MILITARY DEPARTMENT

Camden Military Academy is distinguished as one of the United States' leading military secondary schools and has been designated as a Military Institute (MI) Junior Army Reserve Officers Training Corps (JROTC) School. Our cadets come from all over the world to experience and build upon our academy's strong military tradition. For almost half a century, our JROTC Unit has been designated "Honor Unit with Distinction." Our military approach engages cadets to develop the habits of neatness, precision, promptness and self-control and to cultivate the larger virtues of responsibility, discipline, humility, integrity, honor, and national pride. All high school cadets participate in the JROTC program and attend classes in leadership development. The JROTC program requires students to participate in drill and ceremonies and to attend two classes in leadership development weekly. Seventh and eighth grade students, although not part of the JROTC program, are required to participate in all drill and ceremonies. Indeed—military training is the foundation of the Camden Military Academy experience.

Commandant's Staff: (Front to back, left to right)
CSM David Stokes, SGM Curtis Green, 1SG Earnest Pearson
1SG Esaias Jackson, 1SG Lewis Collins III, CSM Othel Terrell
CSM Frank Macrae SFC Rahsaam Perry, 1SG Michael Irvin,
LTC Brad Lawing, CSM Rolf Irtenkauf, CSM Vertis Wilder

Primary Staff: (Left to right) S-1 CPT Bailey Ezell, S-2 CPT Alex Beasley, S-3 CPT Alex Ranft, Battalion Executive Officer MAJ Austin Martin, Battalion Commander LTC Jake Dean, Battalion Command Sergeant Major CSM Colton Johnson, S-4 CPT Ryan Palumbo, S-5 CPT Sébastien Offredo, Religious Officer 1LT Aaron Cann