

"Alpha Company was at it again. The Chain of Command was nurtured and bred by the wisdom and guidance of CSM Stokes and SFC Perry. That, as well as our high set of standards, is what made the Thompson Barracks more than interesting. (We must also not forget that nostalgic sound of the bull-horn.) Academic excellence was our highest priority; CSM Stokes would say 'Academics first, drill later.' A great future requires an education. All of that potential is yours. When others give up and quit, Alpha stands tall. "
