

THE PALMETTO

Everett Arant, our historian, came here in his Junior year. He is well known as "Baby", being the smallest member of our class physically, but not intellectually, and is one of the best students of the Class of 1921. Arant was elected Secretary of the Sheridan Literary Society for the first term, and was also chosen as Club Editor of The Palmetto.

Douglas Ingraham, one of our military geniuses, hails from the "city" of Cope. "Doug" came to us in the Junior year, and, by a combination of good luck and a little effort, has attained to the dignity of a Senior. Now and then, when he was not busy sleeping, he has had an occasional fit of studying. He and his friend Peebles have been prominent in all affairs of school life, including "rat" conventions. Douglas has been Vice-President of the Beach Society. In military affairs he has been Sergeant and Second Lieutenant.

Oscar William Lever, of Blythewood, is one of our "rats", this being his first year. He is a faithful student and livestock producer, having gotten his nickname "Hog" from his favorite occupation. Although Oscar is very popular among the boys, he is much more popular among the opposite sex, to judge from the many letters he receives from various sections of the state. His honors are many. He is Business Manager of The Palmetto, Assistant Editor-in-Chief of The Bugle, President of the Sheridan Society, and Class Poet. Lever is our only representative in the band,—those noble wind-jammers. He joined the band mainly as an outlet for the hot air in his system.

We, the Class of 1921, are not finishing, but are just beginning our voyages on the seas of life. We are launching out on the deep, without a knowledge of the trials and changing fortunes that lie ahead of us, but with a determination to win for ourselves those successes which result from efforts honestly and faithfully performed.
