EDITORIAL

It has not been an easy matter to publish this the second volume of "The Palmetto." Our troubles have been many and various. What we offer gives only a faint idea of our school and the happy years we have spent on her campus. We have done our best; angels could do no more. Indeed we consider ourselves fortunate to be able at all to publish even this incomplete record of our school life. Never before have we known such a period of financial depression; never do we wish to pass through another like it.

It is our hope that the pages of this volume will give some pleasure to those who read them. It is also our hope that in after years, the re-reading of the volume will awaken our memories and carry us back to days when we thought we were persecuted, but when we were really only beginning the fight in the "University of Hard Knocks."

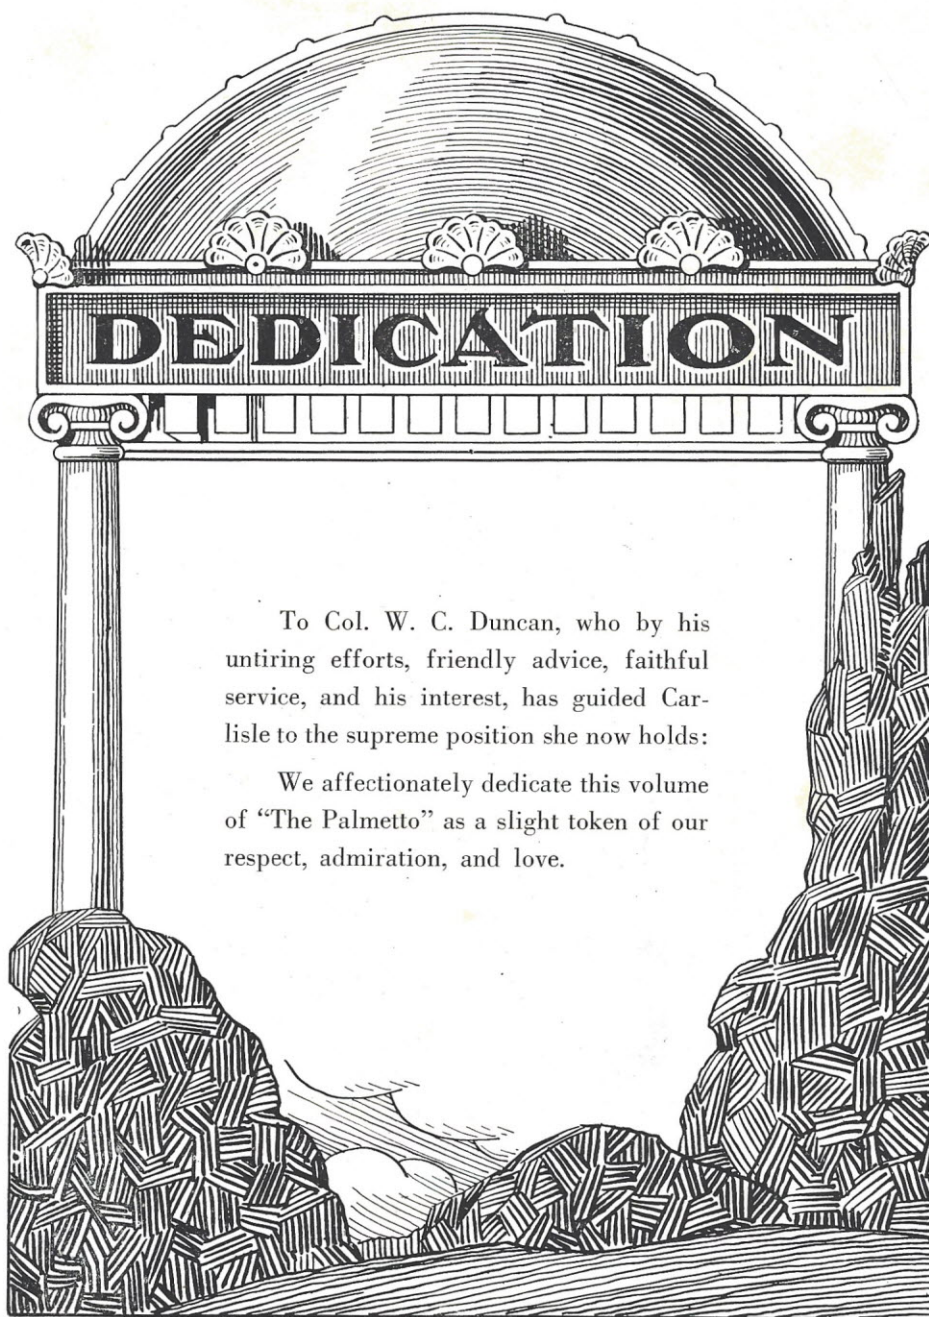

Thus we give to you "The Palmetto" of 1922. If its pages fail to reflect the spirit and ideals of old Carlisle, rest assured that we take away with us in our hearts these same ideals and this same spirit that came from the life of the grand and noble, Christian gentleman whose name is borne by our own beloved school.

DR. JAMES H. CARLISLE

To Col. W. C. Duncan, who by his untiring efforts, friendly advice, faithful service, and his interest, has guided Carlisle to the supreme position she now holds:

We affectionately dedicate this volume of "The Palmetto" as a slight token of our respect, admiration, and love.

CLASS HISTORY

E, the senior class of 1922, with our diploma's almost in our hands, feel, that we must need pause for a moment to write at least a small part of the great work of our class that we can truthfully call the greatest that ever graduated from Carlisle School. In September 1917, eighteen of us arrived on the campus to begin our Freshman year, and although small in number, we were a bunch of willing workers and were soon devoting almost our entire efforts to work. Our number was composed partly of girls, Carlisle then being a Co-Educational Institution. That year we were well represented in athletics. The presence of the girls made the year pass very quickly; almost before we realized it, the session was ended and we were spending our vacation at home, eagerly anticipating our return to the campus for another year. Our proud hopes of being Sophomores, however, were rudely shattered when the news was gently broken to us that the standard had been raised, as a result of which we would remain Freshman for another year. One can easily imagine our chagrin and disappointment, which gradually wore away as we settled down to our tasks. During that year the class was much larger than the preceding, and of course we were well represented in athletics. The class also did good work in the class room.

The next year 1919-20, was one of our most important years. That year also marked the end of co-education at Carlisle, which became entirely a boy's school. Much of our glory came in that year, as we were the leading class in almost all things, being the largest in point of members and also furnishing nearly all the athletes, among whom were five football men and six regulars on the baseball team. These included our star pitcher, Claude McLeod, who is with us again this year. In addition to all the worthy athletes, our class boasted many other distinctions, among which might be mentioned the fact that we were awarded more scholarship badges and deportment stars than any other class in school. Of the three girls then attending school, our class had one, Miss Mary Francis Walker a very brilliant and popular young lady of Bamberg.

Although our Sophomore year was one of importance, it fades into insignificance in comparison to 1920-21. Our junior year. Upon arriving on the campus that year, we found that our number had increased to more than sixty, the largest class ever enrolled at Carlisle. With such a large membership it was necessary for the class to organize, officers being elected as follows: President, E. O. Shealey; Vice-President, Franklin W. Campbell; Secretary and Treasurer, Earle B. Guess and Historian, Ralph A. Durham, all these officers were popular on the campus and held numerous other offices of importance. All Presidents of the Beach Literary Society for that year, were from our class, as well as many other officers in all the societies. We also had among our number the President of the Y. M. C. A., Thaddeus Inabinett, also, the three company commanders and nearly all other cadet officers in the battalion were members of our class. The following were awarded football blocks: Wylie Poag, Bennie Rhodes, Jacob M. Smith, and Ralph A. Durham. James Sanders was awarded a crescent, while Joe Cantey received a monogram. Our class also ranged second in the class championship. Collier and Dantzler, two of our members were block letter basketball men. James Sanders, Marvin Mishoe, Claude McLeod, and Lawton Dantzler represented us on the baseball team. While we also had several good second string men. The members of our class went home that year with a determination to come back at the beginning of the next term and uphold and add to the excellent record we had made thus far.

This year 1921-22, we found that our number had decreased somewhat, several of our class mates having gone to Wofford and other colleges where, from the last accounts, they are all making good with out a single exception. Even with some of our members gone, we still had quite a large class and right well do we deserve the name of being the largest senior class that ever graduated from Carlisle, in point of membership, as well as all other things pertaining to the life of the school.

The first things we did after arriving here, Sept. 21st 1921, was to elect our class officers. The following were elected: President, E. D. Law, Jr.; Vice-President, Claude E. McLeod; Secretary, H. B. Spell; Terasurer, Rudolph Bozard; Historian, Ralph A. Durham; Poet, Thaddeus Inabinett; and prophet Leonard Arant. This year our class led in all the school activities, including scholarship and deportment, while in athletics up until the time the annual goes to press, we've more than done our part. The following members of our class were awarded block letters for football: Milton Hawes, Joe Cantey, and Ben K. Summersett, while Jake Smith and Ralph Rurham were awarded stars. In the mattter of class championships we won second place, the sophomores having beat us by the small score of 58 to 0. We did beat our next years seniors. The juniors, much to their disappointment and surprise. At the time our annual goes to press our baseball team has not yet been picked, but we are sure to have a goodly number of representatives on it, as we still have in our class two members of our last years champion team, C. E. McLeod and Marvin Mishoe. In the Literary Societies eight of the nine Presidents are members of our class, and nearly all the other society officers belong to us. The President and Secretary and Treasurer of the student body are mmebers of our class; all the officers of the Y. M. C. A., and eight of the eleven cadet officers on the campus, among whom is our Cadet Major, E. K. Goethe. To name all the honors held by members of our senior class would be impossible, so we will stop with honors, by again saying we were the leaders on the campus in everything. It fills our hearts with sadness to think of leaving dear old Carlisle for it has meant much to all of us; but we leave making this promise to our school. "We will always stand for Carlisle, no matter what the circumstances may be or where we are.

—Ralph A. Durham, Historian '22.

Senior Class Prophecy

It is indeed a remarkable privilege, and experience long to be remembered, to be taken into the confidence of the immortal Gods of fate. If mankind could only gaze into the distant future, and see what happiness, success, and joy awaits him there, he would cease to be pessimistic about the boll weevil, and the pinch of hard times; and would on the other hand be overjoyed at the thought of traveling into that glorious future that awaits him. I have often thought what a revelation it would be for the class of '22 to see themselves as others will see them twenty years hence. Many times I have wished that it might fall my lot to be able to foretell their future. I have been made particularly happy by the realization of this hearts desire, by having been taken behind the mystic veil of the fates, and, there, having unfolded to me the glorious future of my beloved classmates. Let me hasten to add, my reader, that this experience is not fiction but solemn truth.

It was during one of those continuous rains that we remember in the early Spring, when we had been denied, by the steady downpour the privilege of enjoying our usual Friday afternoon leave; As you know it is on Friday that we enjoy from our box seats the superb attractions that are offered to us by the Richie Rowell's picture show, and mingle with the teeming thousands that walk the streets of Bamberg. Being thus shut in by the rain, I was compelled to sit by the fire, and listen to the patter of the raindrops on the roof, and study Captain Stabler's French. However easy French may be to some, it has always had a soothing and confusing effect on me, and on several occasions I have lulled myself to sleep trying to learn it.

On this particular Friday afternoon, the first seemed uncommonly warm and cozy, and, as I sat there with my feet before the warm blaze, puffing at my fifth consecutive pipe of strong tobacco, blowing one cloud of smoke after another, my French book soon became a confused jumble, before my unseeing eyes, and my thoughts went drifting far away.

I seemed to grow more and more drowsy, and forgetful of everything around me, and my French book dropped from my hands; I was at last in the hands of forgetfulness.

Twenty years seemed to have elapsed since we received our diplomas as Carlisle, and said goodbye to our classmates.

I boarded the Southern train, number 3031, for Bamberg, S. C. to attend the Class reunion of the glorious class of '22; and as I boarded the train a very prominent voice shouted "ticket." Looking up I noticed a man coming toward me literally covered with brass buttons. This distinguished looking man was none other than the conductor, Milton Hawes. I was greatly pleased to see Milton and he informed me that he and Chief of Police Buddin would be on hand for the reunion in due time for the banquet.

Suddenly I felt a joyous, but very painful, slap on the shoulder; looking up I found that the man who had slapped me was my old class mate, Joe Cantey, who sat down with me, and informed me that he was the father of fourteen children, a two horse farm and the proud owner of a large pumpkin patch. Soon, as Joe and I sat talking and feeling the need of a smoke, we made our way back into the smoker, and who should we see in the midst of a hot argument about the price of perfumes but "Sis" Gallman, and Walter Fanning. After we had chatted for a few moments about old times, we learned that Gallman was a wholesale merchant for perfumes, poodle dogs, and ladies' ready to wear, and that Fanning was one of the leading Surgeons of Midway, S. C. The "General" informed us that he had just performed an operation on a man by cutting off his "Probasis"; he said that the operation was a success but that the patient died. Picking up a copy of the "Ehrhardt Blade" we learned that Prof. I. W. Goodwin had been elected third assistant to Lieut. Col. Bill Watson who had become too grayheaded to teach all the science of Carlisle School. In the same paper we noticed a very prominent advertisement which read "Bonnette Brothers Undertaking Establishment. "We Guarantee Satisfaction." Glancing up at the top of the editorial page, we noticed that the formidable editor of that great Ehrhardt news paper was none other than Ralph Durham, the beloved fat boy of the class of '22. Dr. Fanning informed us that this paper was by common consent, the hardest fighting paper in the state for clean politics and prohibition. Dr. Fanning told us also that "Little Boy" fatty had been a strong supporter of Mayor Ponto Spell, who had been elected Mayor of Ehrhardt by a close vote of 14 to 13. In the same paper we noticed that Summersett's band of 80 pieces would give a concert in the metropolitan Opera House at Walterboro, S. C. It seemed that Summersett had pushed Sousa completely out of the musical world, and it was indeed hard to believe that this was the same "Rastus" Summersett who used to toot the baritone horn at Carlisle. Soon the train gave two sharp blasts, and the conductor informed us that we were rapidly approaching Bamberg. When we had grabbed our grips, we went to the door of the coach to get off, and whom should we see there at the station to greet us but Brigadier General Goethe, Commander-in-Chief of the Turkish Army, and another man who hid behind a heavy black mustache, whom we soon discovered to be Earle Guess. Goethe informed us that he had gone to Turkey because the social life there appealed to him; and that the Turks, quick to recognize a military genius, had made him Commander-in-Chief of the Sultan's Army. Earle Guess was an electrical engineer of some renown, of Columbia, S. C., a city commissioner, and chairman of the board of stewards in the First Methodist Church. It was no hard matter to see that "Duke" was a prominent figure in Columbia, just as we thought he would be before he left Carlisle. They informed us that numbers of the class of '22 had arrived in town to attend the reunion. Going over to the Mayflower Inn, we found that Peter Stokes was the proud proprietor of that great hotel.

The day soon came to a close, and about seven o'clock we all began to wind our way up toward old Carlisle campus to attend the class reunion. Upon our arrival, we were received graciously by Col. Elliott O. Watson, who was now the President of Carlisle; as we observed him more closely, we noticed many silver threads among the red, yet he was the same jolly good fellow that he used to be as Commandant. Immediately we inquired of him as to what had become of Col. Duncan. Col. Watson laughed heartily, and informed us that for the last eighteen years Col. Duncan had been married to a charming little wife, and had retired to private life; built a little love nest at Embree, S. C., and was operating a large chrysanthemum farm. Before a great while the joyous throng of the class of '22 had intermingled, shaken hands, and chatted a bit about old times. We then marched into the dining room which was no longer in the old Guilds Hall but in the "Watson Memorial Hall," that now stood where old Brabham Hall once had been.

Col. Watson had arranged an elaborate and toothsome menu for us. We all ate so heartily and were so jolly and happy, that, by casting a long look back into the past, it seemed that the old days had come again and it seemed as if a recurrence of the old days when we used to eat boiled beef and zip.

After we had finished all the twenty eight courses that were offered at the dinner, Col. Watson, who was toastmaster, arose, and, after a few preliminary remarks, introduced the speaker of the evening. This was none other than Judge E. D. Law of the South Carolina Supreme Court. The Judge, in accounting for himself, said that he had labored hard for several years as a shyster lawyer before the people really found out his worth as a jurist. He added, however, in a confident and assured manner that it was a well known fact that you could not "keep a good man down"; and that the world sooner or later would recognize the worth of her talented men. He also said that in all of his career as a judge, his most painful duty arose when he had to fine John Luther Faurey a hundred thousand dollars for buying up all the grocery stores and merging them into a trust. Judge Law told us that Jordan Johnston had also found success in the law profession and that he had been made a Judge Advocate in the United States Army.

Another interesting speaker of the evening was Dr. Thaddeus Inabinett, a world famed evangelist, who had made a good record that would make Billy Sunday look like a village parson. People of this country back in the days of 1922 built tabernacles, but they were now having to build coliseums and amphitheatres to accomodate the countless thousands that flocked to hear Dr. Inabinett.

The last speaker on the program was Dr. William Lander, head of the Science Department at Oxford. Dr. Lander's work in chemical and scientific research had been so wonderful that it was almost unbelievable. He had invented a gas so deadly that it would kill a man over the telephone. He had also invented a gunpowder of such a highly explosive nature, that, when used in guns, it was no longer necessary to see the enemy; all that was necessary was his address.

He had likewise invented a marvelous liquid that would make the old young; that would heal a broken limb in one second; that would bring the dead back to life again; that would make fire horses out of billy goats; and that would make watermelons out of cucumbers.

It was indeed hard to realize that this great scientist was the same small "Runt" Lander who used to look so meek and harmless on the campus at Carlisle.

After the banquet, I struck up with my old friend and roommate, Rudolph Bozard, who was now a famous inventor. He informed me that he was working on a machine that would enable people to travel instantaneously. He said that he had made the trip down from New York by that method of locomotion in three seconds. It sounded like a fish tale to me, but "Buzzard" looked so serious that I did not dare to question his statement.

Looking across the room, I saw another face that immediately struck me as being familiar, but he wore such a complete grin that it was impossible to see his eyes or to discern who he was. After a few minutes, however, his grin diminished somewhat, and immediately I saw that it was my old classmate, Mishoe.

The twenty years that had passed had made him somewhat gray with age and hoary with antiquity and respectability, but still it was an easy matter to see that he was indeed the Mishoe that we knew as a member of the class of '22. He still persisted in using that possum like grin that obscured his face so that you could not recognize him.

I went over and spoke to him, and he informed me that he was an M. D., and had been rolling pills for several years. He said that out of sixty cases of flu he had saved sixty-one lives; he had even saved the life of an old man that didn't have the flu. He said also that he was a neighbor to our old friend, "Cocanut" McCoy, who had become a famous scientific farmer. Mishoe also informed me that McLeod had made a good record in the baseball world, being now the manager and pitcher of the famous "Oswego Sluggers."

It was cocanut who had taught the country how to grow cotton without fertilizers. He owned and operated the McCoy hide farm, and became rich from selling cat hides; he said that he kept a supply of cats, and a supply of rats; and fed the cats on the rats; and the rats on the carcass of the cats after he had skinned them; that in that way the cat farm was self supporting, no expense, and that they both multiplying so fast that some citizens had expressed fear that the country would soon be literally overrun with cats and rats.

The reunion was a glorious occasion. I can never express the joy and gladness that came to us all as we intermingled, and as our hearts and minds looked back into the past to our boyhood days. Amid the joy there was a peculiar sadness about it all. Those days of our boyhood had gone from us forever; we were sitting on the western porch of life, and the gray hairs in our heads signified that the sun would soon be setting. It was then that we realized most, just how happy our boyhood days had been, and though we were all cheerful and happy there was in every man's heart and mind, the realization that soon we must pass on to that great beyond—to that mysterious "somewhere," to "that undiscovered country from whose bourn no traveler has ever returned."

At this point of my vision, it seemed to me that I arose up abruptly and went out on the porch; it was raining, and I seemed to be standing under a gutter pipe; the water seemed to pour down upon me, and for some reason I was unable to move. The water trickled down my collar all the way to my toes, and I shivered because it seemed that I was wet to the skin. I heard suddenly these words "wake up you rascal;" looking up and rubbing my eyes I was able to make out the figure of Maj. Bill Watson who stood over me with his water pitcher, letting the water gently drop therefrom upon my head and it was then that I discovered this joyous occasion was all a dream. Maj. Bill had used his favorite method of bringing a man back from the land of nod during study period.

Although I was about soaked with water, and knew that I would soon have to go to the trouble of jumping into dry clothes, which caused me some chagrin, and discomfort; yet I was glad to have paid the price, because I had been taken by the Gods of Fate into their secret shrine, and there had unfolded to me the revelation which I had so long hoped for.

Let not our idle dreams frighten our souls,

—Leonard F. Arant, Class Prophet '22.

Whereas in the course of events it is necessary that mankind should look to the great beyond wither we must all travel and, whereas we, the class of "22" who are now about to depart this life and, whereas we do desire that others should enjoy the property and effects that we have been seized of during our sojourn at Carlisle.

Now know all men by these presents that we the senior class in contemplation of departing this life do hereby revoke all form of wills and declare this to be our last will and testament.

To our beloved underclassman J. D. Liston, we bequeath all that sweet and savory collection of choice perfume formerly owned by "Sis" Gallman.

We do devise unto Major Bill Watson for the benefit of the Science Department, that valuable and ingenious perpetual motion theory of Ponto Spells.

We do solemnly grant to Major Elliott Watson that permanent Southern Railway pass owned by our class mate E. D. Law, so that the Major may with more grace and less expense travel to and from Ashville.

Out of the goodness of our hearts we do devise unto Jack Massabeau that rich, rare, and racie Latin poney, belonging to Zula Bonnett that Jack may more intelligently interpret and translate Caesar's Galic Wars.

To that ambitious young lad known as Vernon Sauls we give and bequeath Goethe's broad and far reaching knowledge of History that Sauls may successfully carry into effect his ambition to be a Professor of History at "Smoaks Cross Roads".

To the Science department of Carlisle we graciously give that vast knowledge of Chemistry of I. W. Goodwin's.

We do grant release and give to dear old Carlisle another shower bath that we have purchased, that she may be the proud owner of the grand total of two.

To our Head Master, Col. W. C. Duncan, we will that valuable little book entitled "How to Make Love" that has been used with such great success by General Fanning.

To suffering Jacobs, we will and bequeath thirty-three barrels of pure "Zip" that we have purchased from the cane mille of Bamberg County.

To anybody, we gladly donate all the hot water they can find on the campus.

To parson Davis, we give with much feeling that trusty old silk shirt belonging to little Ralph Durham in order that the parson may more adequately pursue his social activities.

To P. E. Bellamy that ardent admirer of the weed, we will and bequeath all our cigarettes, ash trays etc., that in years to come he may enjoy that bliss to be found in cigarettes which have been so harshly denied here during his stay at Carlisle.

To Capt. Stabler, Capt. Gault and Maj. W. R. Watson, we will and gladly give all the knowledge of "Fords" that we may have because we believe that any man afflicted with a Ford is always in need of help.

To the La Victoria Theatre we leave our thanks and gratitude for their kindness to us, as they never did charge us over 65 cents to see a two reeler.

We give and bequeath to Rupert Gaddy any ability we may have to coach football teams, hoping that this may help him some in his chosen profession of coaching.

To our beloved rising senior Hugh Folk we give and release Mishoe's old rusty razor that he may keep his wishes pruned next term a little better than he has this year.

To Charlie Moye our Prof. of soap suds we will our respective pairs of fatigue trousers, may he wash them to his hearts content.

The PALMETTO '22

To the Carlisle infirmary, that sweet asyulum and pleasant refuge from classes, we give and bequeath all the pills, capsules, and castor oil that we may possess also that old pair of tooth pullers, belonging to Joe Cantey and that excellent box of salts that Red Burdett purchased in Denmark.

To all our brothers and underclassmen, we will our good wishes as well as our sympathy, because as the parting time, we feel pangs of sadness mingled with joy.

To Mrs. Beach our loved matron, we will our highest esteem and sincerest thanks for her kindness and devotion to us, and for which kindness she rightly deserves a large place in our hearts.

We have hereunto affixed our joint and several hands and seals, this twenty-ninth day of May.

Senior Class Poem

*Some years ago, while seeking for
The best life holds in store for us
We read this over our vision's door
Prepare yourself; you can, you must.*

*We stopped, we thought, we turned about
With a firm resolve some place to find
Which our entering in and coming out
Would fit us for life, in heart and mind.*

*The time we spent in looking about
For such a place was only a while
For within our minds there was no doubt
That what we wanted was old Carlisle.*

*We came, we saw, we thought that we
Were blessed in finding such a school
Where strife is scarce, where love is free
When they knew our motto was "Prevail."*

*The play was pleasant, the work was too
And the lessons we learned we shall ever cherish
But we all can make this statement true
Our love shall be the last to perish.*

*But as we have met, so we must part
For this strong law will rule forever
The friends that time joins to your heart
Time must again them from you sever.*

*So now we've come e'en to the day
When we must bid our fond farewell
And go each one a different way
To meet with what we none can tell.*

*But this resolve now let us make
As friend from friend we now depart
As we give each other a last handshake
And prepare these different ways to start.*

*That we shall seek to live each day
That we set foot upon the sod
Not in a mean and selfish way
But for our friends, our homes, our God.*

Junior Class History

ET us the class of 1922, as we are now on the threshold of our senior year, turn back and review the tale that has been told by our lives and actions during our first three years at Carlisle. As the days passed by, the journey seemed long, and the goal far away; but now, as we look backward over the three years, they seem as only a day. With the passing of the days we have learned to love and appreciate Carlisle more and more. So that we would never forget, we would record the following story of our life and work during our stay on the campus:

In the fall of 1919 a large number of "home" sick boys landed on the Carlisle campus. It was a queer place for them after leading such a home like life. Some perhaps, had never left home before, and few if any had been to a boarding school. After being sympathized with for several weeks by the faculty; however, they started into the full swing of school life. As Freshmen we were far from our goal, but with determination, and high spirits we launched ourselves toward it. We had several members on the football team. Large and Warren being our brightest stars. We were well represented on the baseball team also, and, as a whole did good work in the classroom. We left for home in June with glad hearts, feeling that we had done our part, and time well spent. After three months vacation though, we were anxious to return and take up our work again.

The next year 1920-21, we were Sophomores and it was a year of much importance. We enrolled over sixty students that year one of the largest enrollments in the history of Carlisle. It was a pretty large class and we found that it was necessary to organize. We divided the class into two sections, Section "A" and section "B". The officers chosen were as follows: Section "A", President, Otto Large, Vice-President, Ulysees Jeffords; Secretary and Treasurer, Faber Folk; Historian, V. W. Lewis. Section "B", President, Gerard Warren; Vice-President, Proctor Gordon; Secretary and Treasurer, D. M. Sanders; Historian, W. Bratton Williams. Being a large class we contributed largely to athletics. Eight members of varsity football were Sophomores, viz, Large, Warren, George Bamberg, D. M. Sanders, Poag, Gordon, Bratton Williams and A. D. Connor. Poag and Silcox represented our class in Basketball, while Large, Sanders and Massebeau upheld our honor on the Baseball field. On the track team we were represented by Poag, Williams, and Hayden. We were the winners of the class football championship, and we also made rapid progress in our literary work. After three hard exams, in June, we found ourselves enjoying another long vacation.

The following year 1921-22, was our Junior year. When we arrived on the campus we found only sixteen boys from the class of 1919-20, but we were joined by other students, making an enrollment of about forty-five men, although few have left us since. It was a large class, and again we had to organize. The officers elected were as follows: President, Otto Large; Vice-President, M. K. Sanders; Secretary and Treasurer, N. A. Lewis; Historian, Ralph Wolf. All of our class officers are popular on the campus, and hold other offices of importance. Our Sophomore year was one of importance but it fades away into insignificance when compared to our Junior year. The majority of the members on the varsity football team came from the Junior Class, and we have several members on the Basketball team, also. In Baseball we are sure to be well represented; we shall have Large, Massebeau, Sanders, Sauls, L. Sauls, V., and others who have not been chosen yet. So far, our class has made an excellent record, and we shall put forth our greatest efforts to prepare for the future. We endeavor always to stand at the top of all things worth while.

Sophomore Class History

ON September 1921, we arrived at Carlisle, and at first it was quite hard for us to realize that play was over and that our work had begun once again. However, we soon buckled down to hard work and determined to make a good record for our class the coming year.

While we were busily engaged with our lessons, the Christmas holidays drew near, and although we hated to leave our books, we did not refuse but went home and enjoyed three weeks of vacation.

A few of our men did not return after the holidays but their places were filled with other students and our work was continued as before.

We have held our own this year in sports, especially in football, having a number of men who upheld our fine class spirit. We have had a fine time this year, and have also made a good record in our studies; therefore, we believe that we can truly prophesy that in two more years we will go forth from this school, the greatest class of all—the clas of 1924.

Freshman Class History

LAST September thirty-two young men came to Carlisle to begin their prep. school careers. This group of boys formed the Freshman Class, most of us were boys who were leaving home for the first time. Although fifteen of them were of least years' Sub-Freshman Class at Carlisle. For most of us, everything was new and strange, and the first few days were filled with longings for home. However, two weeks passed; we began to get interested in our work, and the homesick feeling gradually dropped away. It was only a matter of a few weeks before we had become accustomed to boarding school life and were beginning to love the school more and more each passing day.

Necessarily such a large class had to organize. So early in the year a class meeting was held and the following men were chosen as officers of the class of 1925; President, A. B. Fairey; Vice-President, E. Way, Secretary, Doring Bray, Historian, R. T. Farmer.

Our class has not been without success in the realm of athletics. Fairey played on the varsity football team, and played with much zeal, he was awarded a "block." He also played on the baseball team, holding a place on the pitching staff. Hewitt played in quite a few of the football games also, and was given a monogram. Bray, Carter, Stephens, Phillips, Sanders, A. and Padgett were awarded numerals for playing class football. While we were participating in various school activities, we have not been idle in the class rooms, and in the Literary Societies. We have established a fair second in our class work and have developed some good material in the Societies.

At present we are looking forward to the summer vacation, after which we shall come back and continue with new spirits our work here. We all want to return to finish here, for we have learned to love old Carlisle, and the memory of these, our Freshman days, will linger long in the minds of all of us.

ORGANIZATIONS

The PALMETTO '22

The Young Men's Christian Association

THE first Young Men's Christian Association was founded in London by George Williams in 1844. Its primary object was the holding of religious meetings in business houses in the center of London. As all other great movements grow rapidly it was not very long before there were like organizations in America and elsewhere, and it was soon their object to promote not only the spiritual welfare of young men, but their social and physical welfare as well. In 1917 there were reported in North America alone 2087 associations combined with others of the world were great factors in cheering the lives of the many soldiers who served during the recent great war.

Too much cannot be said of the Y. M. C. A. as one of the greatest forces tending to upbuild the spiritual, social and physical life in the Cities and army headquarters, but no less should be said of the value of such an organization in schools and colleges. 'Tis true it can only be imagined as to what is being done by the associations of other schools, but we know what is being done at Carlisle. A regular meeting of religious nature is held each Friday night, at which a heart searching soul thrilling or conscious awakening address is usually given by either a member of the faculty, a student, or a christian citizen of the town of Bamberg. But the regular Friday night meetings are not all. On Tuesday afternoon at the sounding of the chapel bell, a number of volunteers gather in some specified room to pray for the uplift of the school in general, and to discuss and solve if possible some of the many problems which arise on the campus. On Sunday afternoons immediately after dinner that group of volunteers meet in chapel where a refreshing, reviving religious service led by Capt. Paul Carroll is enjoyed, and other prayers for the careless and indifferent students are offered. Could anyone expect to see a dead spiritual life existing here with these forces working? (Of course the many earnest workers of the Y. M. C. A. are not always rewarded with the desired results of their efforts, but they are sometimes more than gratified in hearing someone say that it was through the influence he heard the "still small voice of God."

Appreciation

Our rebus dreams are taking shape, and out of the shadows come trooping into light what yesterday were fantasies, but today are realities. In all life's waking and sleeping moments, whatever forms our dreams have taken, there has been in them, guiding our nobler thoughts and loftier motives, the form of those whose sweeter, purer, lovelier life has kept us true to that which in the Old South we reverence next to the Divine. Nowhere else in all the world are lassies loved and revered as they are in our own fair Southland. Nowhere else in all the world are they so worthy to be loved and revered. Here womanhood is held as a thing apart, that men must worship with eternal devotion. Sweet Carolina Lassies! You have helped us keep the faith better than you dreamed. No true Carolina lad counts his life complete until he carries in it the image of a wonderful woman. So this volume would not be complete unless it carried in it the pictures of a few of these daughters of the sunny Southland. Here they are, therefore, not half so attractive as we know them, but as near lifelike as we can present them

CAPT. GAULT, Coach

The PALMETTO '22

Athletics

When we arrived here this year, we found that a number of the old Football, Basketball and Baseball men had returned. We were all glad to see them, because Carlisle has always been proud of men who know how to play the game, and play it square. With these old men and the new ones who sought to represent Carlisle on some athletic team, we hoped for a great success, and our hopes have been somewhat realized. We owe all of our success to the man who worked hard with these teams day after day, not knowing whether he would be paid for his efforts or not. This man is Capt. Gault the wonderful little Coach of Carlisle School.

FOOTBALL

Some of the old football men who returned this year were: White, Large, Cantey, Durham and Gordon.

The first game of the season was on Oct. 14th. with Orangeburg High. Carlisle won by the score of 48 to 0. Stars of the game were White, Smith and Large for Carlisle.

The second game was with Richmond Academy, Oct. 21. In this game Carlisle won by the score of 34 to 25. The stars were, Sherlock and Kilpatrick for Richmond and Large and Cantey for Carlisle.

Carlisle lost to Benedictine College in Savannah by the score of 21 to 13.

A game was played against the Citadel Reserves at Bamberg on November 4th. The Reserves won by the score of 26 to 0. Stars for the Citadel were Hammick and Berry, for Carlisle, Large and Folk.

Carlisle met her old rival Porter Military Academy on Armistice Day, Nov. 11. The score was Porter 35, Carlisle 7. Large for Carlisle and Watts for Porter were the stars.

Carlisle lost to Bailey on Nov. 18th, the score was Bailey 56, Carlisle 0.

Thanksgiving Day, Carlisle ended the season by a glorious victory over Wofford Fitting School. The game was played on our own home grounds. The score was Carlisle 46; Wofford Fitting School 0. The stars for Carlisle were Large, White, Durham, Thompson, Cantey and Folk, for Wofford Fitting School, Crosland.

The class teams were very good this year, every man seemed to enjoy working to make his class win. All of the classes made a creditable showing, but the Sophomores claimed first honors again; while the Seniors came second.

The Athletic Council made the following awards, to receive Blocks, Fairey, Cantey, Ward, Lewis, Massabeau, Holley, Thimpson, Folk, and Summersette.

To receive Stars; Large, White, Durham, Smith, Gordon; Gordon was also awarded a Crescent.

To receive monograms; Moorer, Hewitt, Hawes, Stone. Major Goethe was awarded a managers block.

BASKETBALL

Owing to certain conditions, Basketball was omitted this year at Carlisle, but we do not intend to discontinue this game. We hope to make a record in this particular phase of athletics next year.

BASEBALL

Carlisle is looking forward to a great year in Baseball. We have a record to uphold as last year we won the State prep. school championship. This makes it necessary for us to fight all the harder to keep this banner.

We feel quite confident with Coach Gault again on the job to lead us. Some of the old players who made such good records last year are back with us. Among them are: McLeod, Fairey, Sanders, Thompson and Large. These, with the new men who are trying out should have little trouble in disposing of the other prep. school teams. While the schedule is not yet complete the following will give some idea as to what teams we will have to trounce.

We Want Your Business

WE have furnished a complete service to the management of "The Palmetto" 1922. All extra art work, the engraving, printing and binding of this book were done in our plant.

This has been made possible by specializing on this class of work. This year we are doing work on something like 30 Annuals.

We are prepared to furnish a complete line of stock inserts, borders, panels, instruction books and many other necessities to an annual staff.

We sincerely hope that the management of "The Palmetto" is satisfied with the product of our efforts and that the incoming staff will confer with us before committing themselves on next year's contracts. We will have a more complete line of samples also. Don't fail to let us know when you can see our representative.
